

Wasn't this already settled, when the movie industry tried to destroy the fledgeling video cassette recording industry? Didn't the supreme court rule that people had the express right to tape anything that their receiver picks up, for personal use?